

POWERS IN JAIL; PLANS NEW TRIAL

Accused Accomplice in Goebel Murder Begins
Fight Anew.

Refused Bail When Only
Two Jurors Urged Conviction.

GEORGETOWN, Ky., Jan. 4.—Caleb Powers is back in his cell tonight. Fifty-six days of nerve-racking trial have been added to his seven years of imprisonment on the charge of complicity in the assassination of William Goebel, contestant for the governorship of Kentucky. He is now just where he started. Tomorrow he will begin anew the dreary routine of reading and writing, exercising, and eating. Four walls of his cell become again the boundaries of his world, his law books his principal companions. He will study them again; in the seven years he may have overlooked some point that might have swung the verdict his way.

New Trial Set.

A new trial has been set for July 6. Before this had been decided Powers' attorneys pleaded with the court to admit him to bail. They pointed out that for years he had waited for the hearing, the ordeals of his other trials and the danger to his health from his long confinement, but Judge Morris held the case was not one that would admit of bail.

Powers returned to his cell disappointed, but not disheartened. He has been the man of steel, the man without nerves, throughout his seven years in jail, and the iron courage did not desert him. He put this trial behind him, and began at once to plan for July 6. Ten jurors had been for acquittal this time. How to make sure of the twelve next time was the problem he set about to solve.

Goebel Lays Plans.

Just as determined to continue the fight, Arthur Goebel, brother of the assassinated politician, began building a new foundation for the State's case. This interval will be almost like a recess in the trial. Goebel has spent a fortune in his effort to avenge his brother's death. He has another fortune ready to throw into the contest, if necessary.

Neither side has made any charges of unfairness in this trial. The feeling seemed to prevail on all hands that no matter what has gone before, the trial this time has been complete, unbiased justice. Four Republicans, four Democrats, and four independent Democrats composed the jury. All were men of good standing in the community.

No Unpleasantness.

There was no "packing" charge, no rancor on account of exclusion of testimony.

The hours spent deliberating by the jury were fraught with bitterness so great that early today the members of the panel felt there was no chance for anything save disagreement. But Judge Morris did not consent to disperse them until almost noon. By that time the judge was positive the men holding out would never give in.

Two had stood out for conviction at first, but finally one of them announced he was willing to vote for acquittal. The other would not.

Powers said he was pleased that ten men of the twelve had believed in him.

HOSPITAL BENEFIT AT NATIONAL THEATER

Monday will be a gala night at the National Theater when Robert Edeson will open in "Classmates" in a benefit performance for Garfield Hospital. The lady board of managers of the hospital have bought out the house for Monday night and the proceeds from the tickets will go to the institution. Members of the board have been working zealously for weeks to make the benefit a success and the occasion promises to be an important one not only for the admirers of Mr. Edeson but for friends and patrons of Garfield Hospital. Some confusion has evidently been caused by the announcement that Tuesday will be "army night" and many have believed that the Garfield Hospital benefit will not take place. Mr. Edeson will, however, open his season at the hospital benefit and the double event is being anticipated with much pleasure.

NOTED SCIENTIST DEAD; FATHER OF WASHINGTONIAN

Capt. F. A. Young Attends Funeral of Princeton Astronomer.

Capt. Frederick A. Young, of the Weather Bureau, is today in Hanover, N. H., to attend the funeral of his father, Prof. Charles Augustus Young, late professor of astronomy in Princeton University.

Dr. Young died Friday night at the age of seventy-two years. He was one of the most distinguished scientists and educators of the country. He served in the chair of astronomy at Dartmouth from 1866 to 1877, and then at Princeton until two years ago, when he retired. He was selected by President Woodrow Wilson, of that institution, for participation in the Carnegie fund for retired educators, and on leaving the university was given a dinner which was attended by many prominent men.

A letter of appreciation from his life-long friend, Grover Cleveland, and a poem especially written for the occasion by Dr. Henry Van Dyke, were read at the dinner.

Decorated by the Czar.

During his long and useful career, Dr. Young made a number of important discoveries in astronomy and participated in several notable astronomical expeditions, particularly that to Peking in 1875 to observe the transit of Venus. He was a member of the Royal Society of Astronomers in Paris, and the recipient of a medal from the Czar of Russia. He numbered among his intimate associates distinguished literary and scientific men in all parts of the world. His text-books are accepted authorities in the educational institutions of the United States.

Dr. Young received the degree of LL. D. from probably more universities than any other man of the period, among them Princeton, Dartmouth, Columbia, and the University of Pennsylvania. His portrait was placed in the Hall of Fame at the recent Jamestown Exposition.

Astronomer by Inheritance.

An unique distinction is that he was the third of his family to occupy the

PROF. CHARLES A. YOUNG,
Distinguished Scientist, Received Many Decorations and Degrees.

chair of astronomy at Dartmouth, his father and grandfather having preceded him in that position.

He leaves two sons, Capt. Frederick A. Young, of Thirteenth and Harvard streets, this city, who for twenty years was connected with the Coast and Geodetic Survey, and is now marine observer for the Weather Bureau, and Charles Ira Young, of Philadelphia, an electrical engineer for the Westinghouse concerns.

The funeral of Dr. Young this afternoon will be attended by Dr. Woodrow Wilson, president of Princeton University, and a number of the members of the faculty of that institution and of Dartmouth.

FUNERAL TUESDAY OF ALLISON NAILOR

Oldest Inhabitants Meet to Pay Respect to Dead
President.

Arrangements for the funeral of Allison Nailor were made at a special meeting of the Oldest Inhabitants' Association in the Corcoran building last night. Mr. Nailor was president of the organization. The association will attend the services in the Pro-Cathedral Church of the Ascension Tuesday afternoon in a body, and as many as desire will accompany the body to the grave.

John T. Chaney and O. D. Summy were appointed as active pallbearers to represent the organization.

In calling the meeting to order, A. H. Ragan, first vice president, spoke of the life and character of Mr. Nailor and of the desire of the association to fittingly pay its last respects to one whom it honored not only as its president, but as a leading citizen of Washington.

"In his death," said Mr. Ragan, "the members of this association lose a beloved friend, and the National Capital a citizen who has always been at the front in the movements for the betterment of the public interests. He was a man whose many charities were known only to himself and whose loss in this community will be deeply felt."

Although it was decided that the regular meeting in March be devoted to eulogies of the late president, informal addresses were made last night by John T. Mahoney, Henry K. Willard, Dr. Charles Allen, B. W. Retas, A. K. Parris, Major George A. Ames, John B. McCarthy and Thomas W. Smith.

"THREE WEEKS" SCANNED BY EYE OF VIRTUOUS P. O.

The question as to whether Mrs. Ellen Glyn's "Three Weeks" is naughty is being seriously considered by the Postoffice Department. While Anthony Comstock, anti-vice crusader and post-office inspector in New York, is examining the book with smoked glasses and a pair of tongs, a similar scrutiny is being made by one of the literary censors of the department here, with a view to barring it from the mails.

Efforts to learn the identity of the official to whom has been assigned this precarious task have been futile. None could be found who had done more than "glance" at the book.

PLAN TO PROTECT UTE FROM WINTER FAMINE

Secretary of the Interior Garfield, Commissioner of Indian Affairs Leupp, Assistant Secretary of the Interior, Major General J. Franklin Bell, chief of staff of the army, had a long conference yesterday at the Interior Department, relative to Indian matters and the disposition of the White River Tribe of Ute Indians.

This is the tribe that broke from their reservation last year and kicked up the dust through three States, with the United States cavalry in hot pursuit.

The young men of the tribe are now at Rapid City, Iowa, working on railroad construction work, while the old men and women are at Thunder Butte, South Dakota.

The conference was chiefly to devise means of caring for the Indians during the winter to keep them from famine. Those at Rapid City are believed to be able to take care of themselves, but the others will be issued a daily ration by the Interior Department. The entire tribe will be taken in charge next spring and escorted back to their reservations in Utah.

GRIDIRON CLUB INVITES PRESIDENT TO DINNER

President Roosevelt will be toasted and roasted at the next dinner of the Gridiron Club to be given at the Willard on the evening of January 23. Yesterday a committee of newspaper correspondents of some "notes" extended a cordial invitation to Mr. Roosevelt to attend the spread and hear some choice things said and sung to him.

As Mr. Roosevelt is a great stickler for the truth he agreed to attend the dinner.

SUFFRAGETTE TO SPEAK TO WOMEN OF WASHINGTON

Mrs. Annie Cobden Sanderson to Lecture at the Willard
Tomorrow for the Benefit of the Susan B.
Anthony Memorial.

England's foremost suffragette leader, Mrs. Annie Cobden Sanderson, daughter of a prominent London labor leader, will deliver a lecture, "Why I Went to Prison," in the banquet hall of the Willard tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. The proceeds of the lecture will be applied to the Susan B. Anthony memorial fund of $100,000, which the National American Woman Suffrage Association is raising for campaign purposes.

Mrs. Sanderson, with several other women of London, was sent to Holloway jail at hard labor and in solitary confinement for asking in the house of commons for the rights of citizenship. She and her husband have been workers in the labor movement in England for many years and have keenly realized not only the injustice but the danger of low wages for women. Women's wages have remained the same in England for the past twenty years, while statistics show that the pay of the men has increased 60 per cent in that time.

Sentenced to Prison.

When Annie Kenney, the Lancashire mill girl, and a few others, were sent to jail for six weeks for ringing Mr. Asquith's door bell in order to see him as they had been advised by the prime minister to do, the public paid no attention because they were unknown girls.

The older women not dependent upon their work for a living felt that they must do something to attract attention. As a result of their attempt to speak in the house of commons, Mrs. Sanderson and others were sentenced to Holloway jail for two months. They were released at the end of one month because in a district in the north of England where an election was pending placards were posted on the walls reading, "Who sent Richard Cobden's daughter to prison?"

Mrs. Sanderson believes the most important question in both England and America today is the question of equal political rights for both men and women.

Tells of Low Wages.

Students of Smith, Bryn Mawr, and other large colleges for women have given her a royal welcome at each of her lectures, and her reception in New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, and Pittsburgh surpassed anything ever seen in those cities.

Laboring classes are especially invited to attend the lecture tomorrow night. Throughout her stay in Washington Mrs. Sanderson will stop at the British embassy.

Ambassador Bryce and Mrs. Bryce will be among the distinguished auditors tomorrow evening.

$300 Actually Saved

by every purchaser of a LAUTER HUMAN PIANO. This is only one feature that is making it popular.

Have You Heard It?

One noticeable thing about the fact that the "PLAYER PIANO" means two pianos at one price, and the name "LAUTER HUMAN" means artistic construction—excellence in every detail—tone of remarkable clarity and sweetness—individuality and magnetic quality. It's the instrument that pleases when all others fail.

To Tell You This

—Without a practical demonstration is like a dream. You form the idea that it is a "wonder," whereas a demonstration proves that fact.

You are welcome to call in our showrooms at your pleasure and rest a while—it's cozy and comfortable and then we will cheerfully demonstrate what we have said heretofore.

Entries occupy but one-fourth the space required for pen-written ones. Duplicate bills can be secured at the same writing.

The simplicity with which these results are obtained on the UNDERWOOD makes this form of billing easier than straight-line writing. Let us demonstrate.

President's Days In Cowboy Togs Are All Over Now

The President announced to a Kansas admiral yesterday morning that his cowboy days were over, and that hair brushes, lariats and fancy saddle equipments were for other men. S. L. Tipton, of Courtland, Kan., who sent the President a handsome hair brush two or three years ago, and who called at the White House in company with Senator Curtis to pay his respects, received the news that the President's rough-riding is a thing of the past.

"I wanted to see if the President remembered the brush that I sent him, and he did," said Mr. Tipton, "but he said that his cowboy days were over because he was growing too old for that kind of work."

"The brush was one of the prettiest I ever saw, and was raffled off at a prominent jewelry store at a dollar a chance. I finally got the prize, but I thought it was too good for my use, so sent it to the President."

MISS MARY KEALEY HONORED IN DEATH

Funeral services for Miss Mary Kealey, late principal of the Maury school, were held at 9 o'clock yesterday morning in St. Peter's Church, Second and C streets southeast. The Rev. James O'Brien, pastor of the church, officiated and burial was made in Mt. Olivet. Nearly every school building in the city was represented at the funeral. Miss Kealey's own class attended in a body and occupied seats, which had been reserved for them. A. T. Stuart, who was superintendent of schools for many years while Miss Kealey taught in Washington, and other prominent officials of the schools, attended the services. The church was filled and the floral offerings were unusually beautiful.

While the casket was being borne into the church by the young nephews of Miss Kealey the choir sang "Lead Kindly Light." Following the high mass Mrs. Katherine F. Rogers sang "Face to Face" and "One Sweetly Solemn Thought."

POLICEMAN ORDERED TO PAY ALIMONY

Chief Justice Clabaugh yesterday signed an order directing Police Officer Lewis E. Gee to pay his wife, Ida E. Gee, the sum of $4 a week pending the suit for divorce instituted by Mrs. Gee. It is further directed that the children of the couple shall remain in St. Agnes' School pending the final decree.

In the pending divorce suit brought by Frances S. Nichols against G. W. Nichols, Justice Clabaugh cited the defendant to appear in court and show cause why he should not refrain from molesting his wife while the suit is pending. The defendant is an employee of the Government Printing Office.

Justice Gould has fixed January 19 as the time in which Phil L. Corby must answer in contempt of Equity Court for his alleged failure to pay his wife, Mary F. Corby, alimony.

M'MILLAN NEW CHIEF POSTOFFICE INSPECTOR

Frank E. McMillan yesterday assumed charge of the office of chief inspector of the Postoffice Department. The change was made by Postmaster General Meyer to "enhance the efficiency of the inspection branch of the department." Until recently Mr. McMillan was assistant postmaster at Boston.

W. J. Vickery, whom Mr. McMillan succeeds, has been transferred to the Kansas City postoffice, where he will assume charge of a division. Edward L. McKee, who is succeeded in Kansas City by Mr. Vickery, goes to Denver in the same capacity.

Mr. McMillan's new position ranks next to that of Assistant Postmaster General. The salary is $4,000 a year.

PROTECT PUGET SOUND, REPRESENTATIVE URGES

More men, more guns, more modern equipment, and a torpedo boat flotilla are urged for Puget Sound by Representative Humphrey, of the State of Washington, in a report to the President.

The Washington Representative declares Puget Sound is defenseless. The few men stationed in the fortifications have no means of detecting an approaching battleship or fleet of them. The guns in place at the entrance to the Sound are obsolete, according to Representative Humphrey.

"The only way Puget Sound can be given protection," said Mr. Humphrey, "is by a torpedo flotilla or submarines."

WONT DROP GAMING CASE.

By the arrest of Corwin T. Price, brother-in-law of Charles J. Goodacre, yesterday morning, District Attorney Baker indicated that the case of setting up a gaming table now pending against Goodacre would not be dropped.

Price was compelled to give bond in the sum of $300 for his appearance as a witness against Goodacre. A second trial will come up within the near future.
